GARFIELD TO HAVE MILLION DOLLAR PLANT

Springer Homestead is to be Site of New Motor Corporation Plant Backed by Pittsburg Capitalists.—Bodies to be Made by Mullins Body Corporation.

July 27.—The Garfield Mo- company with a capital of $1,000,- under the management of Dun- McDonald, an inventor, is soon to started here. A tract of 43 acres for the site of the plant has been purchased. The plant manufacture steam power autos, said. In the purchase of the of land is included the Springer

Announcement is made that as soon as material for building can be se- cured the first five buildings of the plant and the power house will be erected. The first building to be erected, Mr. McDonald states, will be a machine shop 240x50 feet, to be fol- lowed by a power house fully equip- ped with machinery for generating electric current. Plans and specifica- tions are already in the hands of the contractors for these buildings.

The first machines to be turned out will be assembled, the bodies being made by the Mullins Body corporation of Salem. The motors will be made in the new shop and some of the chassis at Alliance, according to the statement of Mr. McDonald, who stated that $200,000 to be applied on the building to be erected is now available and that the company has the backing of some influential cap- italists of Pittsburg who will finance the new motor company.

Mr. McDonald has remodeled the Springer home and put it in fine con- dition and with his family now occu- pies the building. He will be on the grounds to superintend the work from the present date.

SKIPPER ADAMS READY FOR FINAL RUN WITH SHAMROCK TODAY

On Board The U. S. Goldsbor- ough Off Sandy Hook, July 27.— (special via wireless, 2:30 P. M.)— The racing yachts are going ahead in a light breeze, with the Shamrock now leading the defender Resolute by about half a mile.

New York, July 27.—(Special.)— When Shamrock starts on the first leg of today's race, it is safe to as- sume that Charles Francis Adams, the Resolute's skipper, will hang on her and stick until such time he deems the Britisher to be held safe. There is a good reason. With the absolute certainty of a wind such as the wind which was started in yesterday, boats a few hundred yards away from each other may be favored with a great ad- vantage. On many occasions an in- ferior boat has won under such con- ditions.

Winds such as these do not blow evenly or steadily, but come in gusts and patches, and if Captain Burton is to be smiled on by the fates that control the air, then Captain Adams reckons he won't be alone in the wind- fall.

This is good sound logic, for as long as Resolute can keep within six minutes and forty seconds of Sham- rock's crossing the line, the big sil- verware over which the argument started will remain the custody of Uncle Sam.

The wind this morning is lively but of the land, and that means that it may die before starting time or shift to the south. In that event the race will at least be finished inside the nec- essary six hours.

FAMOUS CLOWN KILLED

Denver, Colo., July 27.—(Special.) Lew Moore, a circus clown for nearly 20 years and widely known throughout the country, was instant- ly killed early today and several com- panions were seriously injured when an automobile in which the party was driving through Bear Creek canyon, about 20 miles from Denver, skidded and went over an embankment bury- ing the occupants underneath.

City Hospital Training School Graduates Class of Four

The high school auditorium was well filled last evening with a large company of interested people at the annual commencement exercises of the nursing school of the City hos- pital, when a class of four young wo- men was graduated from the school and received diplomas as trained nurses.

The stage was beautifully decorated with flowers, the fragrance of which filled the whole auditorium, while the big American flag added its loveliness to the scene.

Judge J. C. Boone presided in the absence of Walter F. Deming, the president of the board of hospital trustees, who is ill at his home.

The program was opened with music by the Hubbertmarch-Bartholomew or- chestra and an invocation by the Rev. T. J. Kinsey, of the First Friends church. The main feature of the even- ing was the address by the Rev. Dr. S. S. Palmer, of Columbus, moderator of the general assembly of the Presby- terian church, who spoke in a manner which delighted all who heard him and fully sustained his reputation as a platform speaker of unusual note and ability. He dwelt on the serious- ness of the work of the nurse, and on its prime importance, and urged on the graduates the worth of faithfulness in their profession by making full use of every talent they might possess. One of the most striking points in Dr. Palmer's address was his definition of success. He said that one may look in the dictionary and yet not find there a really practical definition of this term. He defined success as "using your powers worthily," and this kind of success he held out as the goal to be striven for by the young women of the graduating class.

The members of the class were Misses Anne Reese Thomas, Ruth Moore, Mildred Luella Todd and Myr- tle Lucille Conrow.

W. H. Mullins made the presenta- tion of the diplomas to the graduates, and their badge pins were presented to them by Miss Nelle Templeton, su- perintendent of the hospital.

The Nightingale pledge was admin- istered by Dr. T. T. Church.

The program was enhanced by pleas- ing vocal selections by Miss Mary Louise Mellinger and Frank Reed, formerly of this city but now residing in Canfield. The Rev. G. Linn Fergu- son, of the Church of Our Saviour, pronounced the benediction which closed the program.

WELFARE FEDERATION WILL BEGIN CAMPAIGN WEDNESDAY EVENING

Wednesday evening will occur the opening of the combined campaign of the Salem Welfare federation, which will this year embrace the budgets of the Salem City Hospital association, the Salem Council of Social Agencies and the Salem Health league.

To wipe out the present indebted- ness and make a number of necessary and fairly extensive repairs, together with new equipment and additions projected by the board of trustees, which will bring the Salem City hos- pital to the standard recently estab- lished, the hospital budget for the year will be $25,000; the Salem Coun- cil of Social Agencies, embracing the Community house and its many activ- ities will require $10,000; the Salem Health league, which maintains a pub- lice health nurse and carries on gen- eral public health activities, will re- quire approximately $5000.

The campaign will be put on by ten teams, each composed of a captain and ten workers. Five of the teams will be made up of women and five of men. The workers will receive their instructions at a luncheon Wednesday evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 6 o'clock. The drive will be made Thursday and Friday. There will be another luncheon at noon on Thursday when reports on the drive will be made. This will also be held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. The campaign will close Friday even- ing with a luncheon at the same place at 6 o'clock when the final reports will be turned in.

The leaders in the campaign hope that all who are interested in the wel- fare of Salem will give their enthusi- astic support to this campaign and put it over the top in great shape.

ODD FELLOWS WILL PLAN WINTER MEETING SERIES

A committee from Amity lodge No. 124, I. O. O. F., consisting of Henry Maeder, Lewis Getz and James A. Probert, will attend a meeting of the committees from other Odd Fellows lodges of the county to be held Thurs- day evening at the Odd Fellows hall in Leetonia.

The object of this meeting is to make plans and a schedule for the winter meetings which will be held throughout the district. The plan is to have each lodge in the district visi- ted at least once each month. Spe- cial entertainment will be provided for these gatherings which will be in the nature of get together socials.

The plan to be worked out Thurs- day is to schedule the various lodges as hosts to the other lodges in the district. Committees from Lisbon, Salem, Damascus, Washingtonville, Leetonia and East Palestine will be present at the meeting in Leetonia.

At the conclusion of the winter gatherings of the lodges, steps will be taken to hold a general picnic during the summer at one of the parks or summer resorts in this sec- tion. It is expected the series of winter social meetings will run until April or May of next year.

LIQUOR FINES GIVE FUNDS FOR POLICE SALARY INCREASE

East Liverpool, July 27.—(Special) —Council last night instructed City Solicitor Perry Rigby to draw up an ordinance, increasing the salary of the police and the firemen. The new wage scale of each department will bring the salaries of the two chiefs to $170 per month; assistant chief, fire department $152, captain of po- lice $152, fire captains $145, and the rank and file to $140. This is a flat increase of $15 per month.

The police have been after a raise for some time past and at the last session of council Policemen Lister and McFarland appeared before the body asking that the police request for $25 per month raise be granted. At that time it was found that there was no way to raise money.

The men then waited and a short time ago several big prohibition raids were made. The fines from these in- creased the city's finances to such an extent that the police felt they were justified in again pressing their de- mand. Up to a few days ago there was nothing said about a raise for the firemen, but in a statement to council, Safety Director Brokaw sug- gested that the men of both depart- ments be given a raise of $20 per month.

Action was immediately taken on the director's suggestion and a flat raise of $15 for every man connected with the two departments was de- cided on, this also includes Joseph O'Reilly, employed at the city hall. The raise will be effective August 1.

ROAD BOOSTERS COMING

Lisbon, July 27. — Friday of next week will see Lisbon filled with mi- litant road boosters. There are three road problems to be threshed out re lating to the change of grades and routes. A new element of discord has been injected into controversy over the route on the East Liverpool and Youngstown road, where hereto- fore the Sprucevale and Bell school house routes were only considered. Friday a delegation with facts, fig- ures and other data will insist that the road be established so as to go past the Frank Armstrong place in Elkrun township and up what is known as the Armstrong hollow. It is claimed that this will furnish the best grade. The other two questions will be the routes for the Lisbon and Salineville and Wellsville and Sa- lineville roads.

Representatives from the state highway department will be here and the locations will be determined by them, it is said. Big delegations from the different districts will be pres- ent to take part in the discussion.

And his job pays the princely sum of $30 a month. David avers that it would not be right to quit his boss in the midst of the haying season, so he will stick to the job until his boss gives him leave. The busi- ness section was literally blanketed with bunting of red, white and blue. From hundreds of homes flew the stars and stripes, and streamers and flags floated from poles and wires up Main and Elm street, to the classic precincts of Smith college. Posters in windows bore a picture of the governor and the slogan "Law and Order."

Twenty-five years ago "Cal" Cool- idge came to Northampton a poor law student. Today the city joined with the nation and state in paying him honor.

EX-SERVICE MAN KILLED BY FLYER

Alliance, July 27.—Leo D. Rinker, an ex-service man, met death within an hour after being struck by the To- ledo flyer as it passed the Garfield coal tipple at about 2 o'clock Monday morning.

The man was a brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad and was en- gaged at the time of the accident in switching cars at the coal tipple. In throwing the switch his head and shoulder extended out over the main track and as the flyer passed the point the man was struck and his skull fractured.

The Sharer ambulance was called, but before the Alliance City hospital was reached Rinker had died. He was about 26 years old and when off duty made his home at the Canton Y. M. C. A. The coroner of Mahoning county has been notified of the acci- dent.

NEW COUNTY PROPOSED

Columbus, July 27. — (Special.)— State officials here today were not disposed to take seriously the pro- posal that another county be added to Ohio's present list of 88, making up the eighty-ninth out of sections of Coshocton, Guernsey and Tuscarawas counties.

It is reported here that the village solicitor and secretary of chamber of commerce, Newcomerstown, Tuscar- awas county, have prepared a bill to be offered in the state legislature here next winter, providing that the eighty-ninth county shall be carved out of the three counties mentioned by taking the land surrounding New- comerstown and making that village the county seat.

WINDY CITY TAXI DRIVERS STAGE BATTLE

Rival Yellow and Checkered Taxicab Chauffeurs Turn Chicago Streets Into Tank Warfare Fighting Front in Fierce Revolver Combats at Close Range.

Chicago, July 27. — (Special.)—A battle between fleets of taxicabs, in which the vehicles were armored according to the best strategy of tank warfare, while their drivers fired hundreds of shots at each other, raged through the early morning hours on the streets of Chicago's West Side today.

The battle was the result of long standing differences between driv- ers of the Yellow Cab company and the Checker Taxicab company, a rival concern.

For hours the battling drivers play- ed every trick of mobile warfare against each other that they could think of, strings of yellow cabs in line rushed past the headquarters of the Checker company at breakneck speed, emptying revolvers broadsides into the latter's offices. Rallying, the black and white checkered cabs of the attacked concern dashed out en masse and ripped into the yellows for counter attacks, according to the best tactics of shock action.

While these major engagements were being fought, numerous indi- vidual battles were fought by drivers, who, racing their taxicabs hub to hub emptied their pistols at each other at close range.

SEBRING BUSINESS HOUSES RELOCATING AFTER FIRE

Sebring, July 27.—But little time has been lost since the big fire of Sat- urday morning in making temporary arrangements for some of the business people who were losers in the fire to continue in business, or for those ren- dered homeless to find new homes.

The Sebring Times will have a new place in the building owned by Mrs. John Blumnsteel, West Oregon ave- nue, and will be fitted up as soon as possible. The Wallace & Rymes in- surance and real estate office will here- after be in the room adjoining the Mill grocery, North Fifteenth street.

F. L. Herman, whose loss is the greatest, stated today that he had not fully decided what he would do, but but believed he would rebuild on the old site of the Victoria building, and may open a temporary store on South Fifteenth street.

Mrs. Knight, who was second larg- est loser, stated that she had noth- ing to say as to the future, but may start up again if she can locate a site. Sam Lee, who conducted the laundry and in which the fire originated, was a heavy loser and may not continue in business. A large amount of laun- dried goods for customers was de- stroyed in the fire.

Where the barber shop of F. O. Brooks and the restaurant of I. D. Bailey will find a new location is not known. Some temporary place for these will probably be provided in a few days.

PHYSICIAN IS DROWNED

Youngstown, July 27. — Dr. Carey M. Klyne, one of the best known phy- sicians in this city, was drowned shortly after 4 p. m. Sunday while bathing in Lake Milton, where he and his wife had been staying at their cottage.

The physician had been swimming and diving and had been amusing himself with a barrel at a barge which was anchored some distance from the shore. The last dive he made he called out "come on and get me" and then sank to the bottom. It is believed he was seized with cramps. It was necessary to drag the lake to locate the body and then it was found about 75 feet from where it went down.

For years Dr. Klyne conducted a private sanitarium on West Front street, this city, and was twice elected cor- oner of Mahoning county. He is sur- vived by his wife, Mrs. Florence E. Klyne.

EARTH QUAKE CAUSES SUICIDE

Los Angeles, Calif., July 27.—(Spe cial.)—The death of one man is due indirectly today to the light earth- quake shock which was felt here shortly after midnight last night.

THE MARION MASTERPIECE

Time has now been given for a careful and deliberate study of the acceptance speech delivered by Senator Harding last week at Marion. Opportunity also has been afforded for a survey of the effect it has had and of the reception accorded to it.

If there were any doubts lurking in the minds of independent political thinkers, if there were any disgruntlements yet to be found among disappointed partisans of unsuccessful candidates for the Presidential nomination, if the slightest trace of factionalism still persisted, all doubts, all disgruntlements, all factional feeling vanished with the reading of this truly marvelous exposition of Americanism which breathes in every line of Warren G. Harding's speech accepting the Republican nomination for the Presidency. Henceforth, the struggle to restore constitutional government to our people, to save us from the tolls of European and Asiatic intrigue, to deliver the nation from the rule of organized minorities, will be unitedly waged without respite until the forces of one-man government, internationalism, and class pandering are dissipated and the triumph of the Harding-Coolidge type of nationalism brings the bitter struggle to a close.

The question which every reader of that splendid document must ask himself is, Am I for party first, or for America first? The speech is a benison to that man who would break away from the bondage instituted by Wilson, and which would be perpetuated by Cox, and who longs for the restoration of those American principles which transcend mere party differences. Nothing which Mr. Cox may say can add to or subtract from the intense patriotism, the breadth of vision, exhibited by Mr. Harding. No rhetorical design which that craftsman of fine phrases, Mr. Wilson, may weave upon his typewriter can curb the appeal which Harding's words make to the American heart. After all that has been said and done, the vast majority of us are Americans first. Those staunch disciples of Thomas Jefferson who have hesitatingly followed Woodrow Wilson in his political meanderings of the past few years, and who have recently been assured by Mr. Cox that he is but the shadow of his leader, may find in Harding's nationalism a signal for a parting of the ways; a refusal further to jeopardize American institutions by Wilsonian bell-wethering into a fool's paradise.

Harding's speech gives to the Republicans the assurance that they have done far more than to clinch a party victory by nominating such an exemplar of American thought. It convinces them that they have named the man who will save the nation from entanglement without, by disruption within, for there is nothing in Harding's career as a statesman which has ever given the lie to the sentiments he has uttered. As he promises, so will he perform, and the promises to be read in his acceptance speech are the performances which will meet with the approval of the people.

In the call of the conscience of America is peace, peace that closes the gaping wound of world war, but "it is better to be the free and disinterested agent of international justice and advancing civilization, with the covenant of conscience, than to be shackled by a written compact which surrenders our freedom of action and gives to a military alliance the right to proclaim America's duty to the world." "I wish the higher wage to abide," says he, "on one explicit condition—that the wage earner will give full return for the wage received." He voices his belief in the budget system, more business-like Federal departments, in the protective tariff policy—"We will be calling for its saving Americanism again"—for a great merchant marine, our eminence in trade, standards of immigration, unshackling child labor, stamping out lynching, ample and becoming housing, the revision of taxes and the guarantee to the Negro of his rights of citizenship. Mexico should be helped, but she must respect our boundaries and American lives; the laws must be enforced, but they must harmonize with the Constitution.

Breathes there an American with soul so dead he will not subscribe to sentiments like these? Harding's acceptance address is but the prelude to his inaugural address on the Fourth of March, next.

Social Struggles Are Signs of Healthy Unrest Which Means Progress.

By MISS FRANCES PERKINS, N. Y. State Industrial Commission.

We want to meet these social problems squarely and not be afraid of them. It is the unknown one is afraid of and that is the reason so large a part of the public is in a panicky state of mind over the recent labor disturbances.

I admit the expression of these social struggles is unpleasant and usually makes for a great deal of inconvenience, but the struggles themselves are symptoms of the healthy unrest from which progress springs. A contented group soon becomes a stagnant group. We know from the laws of nature that nothing can stand still. The Bible tells us that where the people have no vision they will perish. These manifestations of the social unrest are really the people's crude way of adhering to an ideal.

People conversant with the facts and at the same time having an intelligent sympathy with the human emotions actuating the protests against the existing order of things, must work constructively to open up avenues which shall eventually lead to equitable settlement.

A "RED" INVOCATION

"We have abolished God" said the Russian commissar to whom a dying man appealed for spiritual consolation. And at the radical convention recently held at Chicago, the Rev. George Chalmers Richmond thanked God for Russia, while "Red" delegates applauded his prayer by tossing their hats aloft and letting loose their revolutionary war cries.

Nothing is more pitiable than the ease with which priests and ministers who thirst for applause are taken in by the frothy homage of the "Reds." The whole history of unrest is eloquent of the fact that men of noble minds are not drawn to it, but only men who seek in it the distinction they have failed to gain elsewhere. Once in a Socialist convention the name of Jesus Christ was cheered while the church was hissed. He was cheered because someone said He was a Socialist. If anyone in that convention had read what Jesus Christ said about Himself, the cheers would have fallen to hisses again. The church will not be deceived by the verbage of "brotherhood," although temperamental and loosely centered churchmen always will.

Nothing was more vividly illustrative of the total lack of spiritual insight, and fitting reverence of thought nothing was more vividly illustrative of the gross materialism, the "Red" vengefulness and the nauseating self esteem of the "Reds," individually and collectively, than the reception of that most sacrilegious prayer of the irreverend Richmond.

The plan of the "Reds," of course is to get rid of all churches and all religion. It is written in their programs. It is preached in their meetings. And the choice means of such destruction is the infiltration into the churches of the "Red" idea. It is the method of infiltration, the method of the borer worm, which paves the way for collapse.—Dearborn Independent.

ONE WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE

Of Interest to Expectant Mothers

Goshen, Ind.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with good results after I had suffered for some time with female trouble. Some years ago I had twin boys and took your Vegetable Compound before they came; also before my four year old boy was born, and afterwards, and think it fine for such cases. I tell others what it did for me and you may publish my testimonial." —Mrs. Geo. A. Foos, 711 S. 9th St., Goshen, Ind.

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong and this good old-fashioned root and herb remedy contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

COUNTY SEAT

Sues City of Wellsville

Sadie Mays has filed suit against the city of Wellsville for damages resulting from a fall which she claims was due to the negligence of the city. She states in her position that she stumbled over obstructions in the street that had been there for a long time and that she fell and broke her shoulder and was otherwise injured. She demands $10,000 damages.

Will Make Orchard Tour

A number of members of the Mahoning county horticultural society will make an orchard tour of Columbiana county on August 4. They will visit the large commercial orchards of the county and plan to eat their picnic dinner at New Waterford at noon in the orchard of J. L. Taggart. Quite a number of orchards in this county are run on the latest scientific principles and the visitors want to see them.

Services Discontinued

The Reformed church of Lisbon, Rev. H. L. Hart, pastor, will discontinue the evening service during August but will hold the regular morning services and have Sunday school as usual.

Burger Arrested at Canton

Word was received Monday that Raymond Burger, of East Rochester, had been arrested at Canton and was being held by the police there until officers from this county arrived. He is wanted upon the charge of abandoning an illegitimate child, the charge having been filed by Dorothy Miller. Deputy Sheriff Harlan Crawford went after the prisoner Monday.

Billotto Charged With Murder

An affidavit charging Francisco Billotto with murder in the first degree was filed in probate court Monday morning by Deputy Prosecutor Jesse Hanley following the death of Joe Compela, one of the victims of the recent shooting. Billotto was in jail under a bond of $4,000 and arrangements were being made to secure bond but under the first degree murder charge no bond can be accepted.

Joe Corica, who is in the hospital as a result of his wounds, will be held under bond as a witness when he recovers sufficiently to be removed. Lena Pasquella is also under bond in the sum of $2,000 as a witness. She is still in jail.

Appointed to Bermuda

Rev. John Hamilton, of Washington, D. C., formerly of Lisbon, has been appointed by the Episcopal church to the church in the Bermuda Islands and will leave for there soon. He is a brother of County Auditor C. E. Hamilton.

Poultry Culling Show

State experts will give a poultry culling demonstration in Fairfield and Elkrun townships on August 24 and 26. The other demonstrations will also be given on those dates, the place to be announced later. The state experiment farms have found that in every flock of poultry there are a lot of loafing hens that do not lay enough eggs to pay for their rations and a system of culling has been worked out that will it is claimed get rid of the poor producers.

To Plant Trunbull Wheat

Nine farmers of Fairfield township have agreed through the Farm bureau to plant nothing but Trunbull wheat this fall so as to demonstrate its quality and productiveness and start a drive to standardize the wheat production in that township and eventually in the county. Other farmers of the county are asked to plant this variety of wheat, as experiments have shown that it is among the best. The claim is made that if a standard variety of wheat is grown in a community that millers are always willing to pay above the market price for the grain.

Seed Agent Told to Quit

Joseph Drum, a crippled man who claims to be representing the seed company of George B. Higbie & Co. Rochester, N. Y. was brought in before Prosecuting Attorney W. W. Beck Saturday morning and notified to quit operations in Ohio or he will be arrested. The expose was brought about by activities of County Agent C. E. Rowland and John Huguette, president of the Columbiana County Farm bureau, who worked all day Friday warning the farmers in Fairfield township against this man. Drum had previously canvassed in Mahoning county selling smut proof oats. In this county he was selling what he claimed was lodge proof oats or oats that had such strong straw that it would not break down.

Investigation showed that he had no state license and that there was nothing in the contract that bound the company guaranteeing the purity, germination or quality of the seed. Rowland claims that if there were any smut proof oats the agricultural department of the states and federal government would know of them.

Drum is so badly crippled that he has two attendants that carry him to and from the machine to the farm houses.

County Agent Rowland has sent out warning letters to all members of the Farm bureau.

Church Petition Dismissed

The petition filed by the Church of Christ of East Liverpool for authority to sell real estate, has been dismissed in court.

Sells Farm For Quarry

Henry Burnett has sold 104 acres of his farm just north of the Lisbon corporation to Frank F. Low of Steubenville, who represents the company that is starting a pulp stone quarry upon the property. The purchase price was $13,000. Mr. Burnett retains 40 acres and his residence fronting on the Salem road.

Low bought the land for the stone which is being quarried and worked up into grindstones and other forms. The company is putting in about $40,000 worth of machinery and has quite a lot of men at work. It is announced that the first shipment when made will go to fill an order from Japan and includes a number of grindstones ten feet in diameter.

The Secret of Life Is Not To Do What One Likes But To Like What One Has to Do

What a happy old world this would be if all its people would find joy in doing their daily tasks. So many of us are looking through the green glass of envy and sometimes the lenses are so distorted that we hate others for being successful, then hate ourselves because our tasks seem so hard. If we got rid of the green glass and had our vision cleared with proper spectacles we'd be surprised to know how much better the old world really is.

MEADVILL MAN WAS IN BAD FIX

But The Situation Was Quickly Relieved When Nerv-Worth Restored His Health

"I was in a terribly run down condition," said A. A. Smith, 561 Franklin street, Meadville, Pa. "I had no appetite, I couldn't sleep and I was very nervous. Gas would form on my stomach, causing a fluttering of the heart. I didn't feel like doing anything, as I had no ambition. I got a bottle of Nerv-Worth, and on taking the first bottle, I felt improved. On my second bottle, I am happy to say I felt like a different man. I would recommend Nerv-worth to all persons who are suffering with similar complaints." If you are nervous, sleepless, or run down, or if you suffer from stomach trouble, give Nerv-Worth a trial, and find relief. Nerv-Worth gives such excellent results because it acts in a sensible way on both stomach and nervous troubles. It it unnecessary to take a different preparation for each of the two afflictions, when Nerv-Worth specifically gives the combined action on both stomach and nervous troubles. These two afflictions are usually found together, and Nerv-Worth fills a long felt demand for a preparation that overcomes it. Do not spend your money buying a series of preparations, when one preparation, Nerv-Worth, will give you relief from both your stomach and nervous troubles, and build up your whole system at the same time. It is composed of ingredients which have been found successful in treating these troubles and for many years has given results where other things have failed. Buy a trial bottle, and if this first bottle does not show you benefits, your money will be refunded. Sold on a money back guarantee by Bennett's and all leading druggists everywhere.

Realty Changes

George L. Kenty and wife have sold through Everett, Capel & Johnston, East Palestine, Ohio, their highly improved farm about four miles south of Columbiana, on the road now being improved, to Ernest Chamberlin and wife, of Clarion county, Pennsylvania, with possession in the near future. This is one of the best farms in Fairfield township, having a record for crop production unusually high. Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain have been looking for a farm for about two years, having investigated several farms in Columbiana and Mahoning counties, Ohio, and in parts of Pennsylvania. Their attention to this farm was called through the intensive and extensive advertising carried on by Everett, Capel & Johnston, of East Palestine, and Everett & Capel, of Salem, and Everett & Capel, of Columbiana. We are advised by these firms that many buyers for farms are coming here very soon. The outlook is first class for the sale of 30 or 40 farms within the next two months. 176h

U. S. TAKES LOOK INTO HAT MAKING

FEDERAL EXPERTS COMPLETE INVESTIGATION WITH VIEW OF AIDING TRADE.

FUR COMES FROM AUSTRALIA

Country Produces Three-Fourths of Rabbit Pelts Required to Manufacture American-Made Headgear—Animals Slaughtered by the Millions.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington. — Government experts working under the supervision of the bureau of standards have completed an investigation of the hat manufacturing industry which reveals some interesting facts as to how a felt hat is made. The investigation is one of a series conducted by the government with the view of aiding business and industry. Generally, one supposes that hats are made of a mixture of wool and cotton, but the fact is that American-made hats are of rabbit fur. The American industry, centering in Connecticut, virtually begins when a rabbit is caught in Australia, and ends when the bow is put on in Danbury. It is a long, long journey, and the discovery of felt making goes back to olden times.

Tradition is that Saint Clements being weary and footsore from his sandals being somewhat rough to his feet and the weather being inclement, tried the plan of putting a rabbit pelt between his feet and the sandals. After a while, as a result of the motion of his feet in walking the heat from the body, and the dampness, he found that he had produced a bit of felt. It has been handed down that the idea of making felt from rabbit fur developed from this homely experiment. But whether tradition is correct, as a historical fact it is true that felt is made just that way—by the combination of warmth, moisture and motion to rabbit fur.

Examination of a piece of fur through a powerful microscope discloses that it is covered with what are called spines or barbs, all projecting in one direction. Bringing together a number of barbed particles of fur and wetting them with hot water, then properly manipulating them with continued applications of moisture, warmth and motion interlocks the fur into felt. This operation known as felting is continued until the felt reaches the desired thickness.

Australia Big Producer.

Three-fourths of the fur used for American-made hats comes from Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania and the remainder from Saxony, the coney of England and Scotland and the hare in Belgium and France. The nutria from the Argentine and the beaver from the American northwest are used for the higher grade felt hats. But the rabbit furnishes the big bulk of the raw material. These rabbits are caught in a wire inclosure having a narrow throat and a wide mouth running out a mile or more on either side. Men and boys engaged in the chase form a cordon connecting the extremities of the wide opening and thus surround the territory from which the rabbits are caught. A great disturbance is created, the rabbits frightened, run away from threatened danger, and hasten toward the inclosure. When they once enter the long opening or gateway they soon pass through the narrow throat into the pen itself. In this way they are caught by the hundreds, thousands and millions, and speedily killed with clubs. They are then "skinned" and the pelts are sent to this country.

Arriving at the seat of manufacture the long hairs are removed from the pelt—this first operation being known as plucking. The finer fur that remains leaves a soft covered pelt and many are used for making wearing apparel. The next operation in hat making is carroting—the application of mercury and sulphuric acid to the hairs to remove the oil and dust caught in the barbs of the hair. After being dried, the pelt is run through a machine to clip off the fur. Then the fur goes into blowing machines of many chambers to remove the short pieces of hair and impurities, which being heavier than the fur fall to the bottom of each chamber.

A bundle of the fur then goes for making a hat. It is put on a traveling belt or apron by which it is carried through rollers, where it is picked up and finally formed into a mass, and emerges into a large receptacle containing a revolving cone.

Completing the Hat.

The felt is hardened somewhat, and the next operation is cutting to size and working four of the felt cones by application of moisture and warmth into one hat. At this point is the parting of the soft hat and stiff hat. The stiff hat is "shaved" smooth and given a coat of shellac, and then comes the finishing process, including the dyeing. A machine with finger-like projections working up and down stretches the crown into shape, and another stretches out the brim.

The finishing process, known as pouncing, simply means rubbing it with coarse-grained emery paper—one machine doing the work on the inside another on the outside. When finally pounced, the hat is ready for the trimmer. The band is put on, the sweat band put in, the bow sewed on, and there's your hat.

The Real Difference in Storage Batteries—General Principles and Specific Performance

"After all," asked a Missourian of the manager of the Prest-O-Lite Service Station, "isn't one storage battery a good deal like another?"

"A good deal," admitted the manager, "but did it ever occur to you that you could say the same thing about cuff buttons or carpets or tree toads? The principle is the same without a doubt, but there is a wide variation in the manner in which it is carried out. There's as much difference in storage batteries as there is in people."

The manager called the Missourian's attention to the top of a battery near by.

"Take a look at that patented post construction," he said. "That's a special Prest-O-Lite feature. It virtually moulds the positive and negative posts to the cell covers.

"What's the advantage? Why, it eliminates acid creepage around the posts and absolutely prevents the electrolyte from slopping over. And you know that a sloppy battery corrodes very quickly.

"The elements inside the cells are held so securely by this new method that they can't jolt and break, even under unusual service conditions.

"I could mention a lot of other features that distinguish Prest-O-Lite batteries from the ordinary kind. The perfected process plates, carefully pasted by hand, have extremely porous surfaces permitting thorough chemical action. The separators, made from specially treated wood, insure the maximum circulation of electrolyte.

"In a word, the battery is made throughout with the best brains and the best materials it is possible to find. And behind it is the well-known Prest-O-Lite Service that has a standing obligation to help every owner of Prest-O-Lite battery to get the most out of it."

Batteries rebuilt and recharged.

Salem Tourists Enjoy Beauties of Glacier Park

The following letter was written to The News from amid the wonders of Glacier park, by Mrs. I. N. Cooke, who in a party consisting of Mr and Mrs. W. B. Paxson and Mrs. I. H. Cooke is making the scenic tour of the northwest:

On our wonderful tour of the west with the Joslin party we are having the time of our lives. We have been gone but two weeks but it has revealed to us miles of our big country. We are indeed like birds, for we fly now into the depths of the deep rock walled canyons and up the mountain sides amid banks of snow on either side far above our heads. We have travelled roads open this season but one week. We constantly see the snow on the tops of mountains, not in a big sheet, but in the deep ravines and crevices of the rising heights.

Now we stop to gather flowers. Here is a road lined with the beautiful Indian snow ball, growing two feet high with a white flower on the top like an immense ball of sweet scented clematis tied together. The stem is thick as your finger, covered with long scales like hair and grows from a tuft of grass on the ground. Here are forget-me-nots, now like baby breath, two or three feet high and now but three inches tall. Then you ascend a peak and smaller and smaller grow the beautiful flowers till at last we see a tiny little cluster of white almost buried underneath the soil. There are patches of every color imaginable, some high and some low. Prettier bunches cannot be found than the snowy white phlox, which grows like an inverted bowl on the ground. The flowers look like our phlox but in a solid mat on the ground.

Now we pretend we enter the Garden of the Gods in Colorado. Q. is for a little store and here Indians come to us as we stand their pictures with their big broad grins and bows and arrows. Far aw[illegible] an eagle's nest high among the pinnacles.

Now we ride through Estes Park and imagine we are with Irvin on his travels in Switzerland, only the birds did not sing as we drove by the dark creek between the mountain sides.

Yellowstone Park, why yes, here are the beautiful white steps of the hot springs, the [illegible] geysers, the boiling and then rising to the sky, the fish we catch and cook with[illegible] out a step, the [illegible]bird that boils and disappears time and time again and comes up warm. I saw it [illegible] snow. We take walk and [illegible] big black bear [illegible] across our path. We ride again [illegible] and here grazes an antelope in peace and plenty.

Now we are in Glacier Park and praying for the sun to show his face in the morning, for it is the most beautiful scenery we have yet seen. Lake McDermott so smooth with one chalet at its edge and out one window we see the beautiful Mt. Grinnell, the ascender to which is promised $1,000 by this hotel. By its side lies Grinnell Glacier. All around us are heaped these beautiful sights.

I forgot our breakfast at Lake hotel in Yellowstone. Our crowd went fishing in the evening and for breakfast we had 27 fish, cutthroat trout, weighing two and three pounds each. Twas the best I ever ate, as Mr. Cooke helped to do the fishing and while he got wet and had to be put to bed he was dried off and ready for us to eat breakfast when [illegible] I think the past two weeks have a host of wonderful experiences.

Buick Valve-In-Head Success

The Buick Valve-In-Head motor car's sales record each season is a good example of the confidence and prestage that the world's buyers have placed in Buick quality and manufacture.

The famous Buick policies and principles of twenty years ago still remain intact in Buick construction. They have stood the test of years of constant operation. Naturally the quality, endurance and economy which has been so essential to over five hundred thousand Buick owners in the past is now eagerly sought for by thousands of future motor car purchasers.

Today the Buick Valve-In-Head built by the pioneer builders of Valve-In-Head motor cars stand pre-eminently before the entire motor car field as "first choice" among motor car buyers.

Aviators Guide Cavalry.

While the Fourteenth cavalry was on the march recently from Fort Sam Houston, Tex., to Fort Ringgold, Tex., an aviator, who elected to pass over their heads, acted as their volunteer guide.

The observer in the airplane saw that, instead of the Trio City road, they were following what is known as the Somerset road. He advised them of their error by a message dropped in front of the moving column, and the troop detoured to the correct road.

The officers reported the incident to the chief of operations at Kelly field upon their arrival, and 25 minutes later a map, showing the route to their destination, Fort Ringgold, was dropped in the middle of the marching column.

FOUNDRY COMPANY SEEKS TO ENJOIN STRIKERS

Lisbon, July 27.—The Columbiana Foundry company of Columbiana filed a petition in common pleas court Monday asking an injunction against the striking moulders to prevent them from interfering with the men working in the company's foundry who are non union men. Moulders local No. 470, of the International union, is made defendant in the action, together with Roy Clecker, Park Kridler, Ross Albright and a score or more fellow members of the union in that town.

Judge J. G. Moore refused a temporary order but granted an early hearing for the case, fixing August 4 as the date.

The petition alleges that the strikers gather about the entrance of the plant and annoy the workmen, and the fact is also recited that some time ago a bullet was fired into the bedroom of one of the employes, but it is not alleged that a member of the union did the shooting. The strike is said to involve several plants in Columbiana and Lectonia, but the other companies do not join in asking these injunctions. Norman Emery, attorney at Youngstown, filed the petition.
